Good Evening,

Due to the potential for inclement weather in the coming days/weeks, and the fact that we have already taken several snow days, the District will transition to Alternative Learning Days in lieu of snow days whenever possible. The purpose of these days is to provide students with a greater continuity of education and minimize gaps in the learning process. The use of ALDs will also provide us with a more definitive timeline for the end of the school year, which will allow us to plan more appropriately. However, depending on the severity and timing of the weather event, we may still have to utilize a traditional snow day. We will continue to communicate the decision to use an ALD as soon as possible so that students and staff can properly prepare for the day. Thank you for your continued flexibility and understanding.

Sincerely,

Matthew Barrett, Ed. D.
Superintendent
